Sub : Taking load data through MRI in respect of large industrial consumers.

The matter regarding exceeding maximum demand above 105% of the contract demand and levy of excess demand surcharge was raised before the Regulatory Commission during hearing of Tariff Petition of Discoms on 8th and 10th of December, 2004. The Regulatory Commission had examined this aspect and it has been directed that in case of large industrial consumers if the maximum demand is exceeded only once during the month, no excess demand surcharge should be levied if the demand is within 110% of the contract demand. In other words, if any large industrial consumer exceeds the maximum demand upto 110% of the contract demand once in a month, the same is to be condoned so far as the levy of demand surcharge is concerned.

In order to make this provision applicable for the period 1st of January, 2005 onwards, it is advised that the field officers should make it a point to retrieve the half hourly data of the demand through MRI. In case it is observed that the maximum demand of the consumer has crossed the contract demand in any month, the data should be forwarded along with reading to the H.T. Billing Section so that the same is analysed and billing is done as per the directions of the Hon'ble Commission.

Above instructions should be strictly followed by all concerned.
