ORDER

Sub: Release of domestic connections for scattered house holds near the fields.

With the implementation of FRP scheme, the scattered house holds near the fields who were earlier getting domestic supply in the prescribed single phase hours stopped getting domestic supply beyond agricultural block hours. This is a genuine problem being faced by such existing consumers and needs to be addressed prudently.

In order to circumvent the problem, it has been decided that all such existing domestic connections shall be released by installation of single phase transformer of smaller capacities. The following schemes of release of domestic connections for scattered house holds near the field is prescribed with immediate effect:-

1. Single phase net work is to be laid for release of connections to such scattered consumers near the fields so as to ensure the all existing consumers should get the domestic supply from proposed single phase net work.
2. Single phase transformers preferably of capacities of 5 to 10 KVA are to be installed at the load centre for release of such connections. Higher capacity may be installed only if 5-10 KVA is not available.
3. Such connections are to be released through AB cable and the maximum radial length of AB cable is limited to 500 Mtr.
4. The connections can also be released by tapping the AB cable subject to maximum circuit length of 500 Mtr. from the locations of the distribution transformers.
5. The installation is to be done preferably on PCC poles of 9 Mtr. length.
6. Proper earthing should be done.
7. The transformer should be welded to the structure so that chances of theft are minimized.

8. The Ring on top of the cover of the transformer, should also be welded at 3-4 places before issue of the transformer to field from the store.
9. Sufficient No. of new single phase transformers shall be installed by extension of 11 KV line on the basis of schemes/estimates to be sanctioned by AEn.

The above mentioned procedure is to be followed for existing domestic supply consumers only. However, for release of new domestic connections, a separate scheme is under preparation and instructions shall be issued in due course of time.
